3. Jim Marxen presented a breakout of the work orders that were received and addressed. Dalene Felder then presented the major work that has been done for the past year. This included pressure issues, the Turner Control, installation of additional flush valves at mid-point of the longer streets and the need for more gate valves to further isolate streets for maintenance and flushing activities. Johnny Clawson also provided additional detail explaining the issues that were found and corrected to address the sediment issues we've had for the past few months for both the pressure line replacement from the pumps to the pressure tank and the aerator being cleaned and disinfected. A question was received from a visitor whether the board had considered Hydro Analysis (pressure wash). It was indicated that pressure breaks were the main concern.

NEW BUSINESS:

1. Questions were asked from visitors regarding the water quality. Testing is done monthly and yearly by certified labs that the state identified and government testing (i.e. EPA). Two action items were identified for Jim Marxen to address, the first is to create web pages for all testing results and add to the office voice recording the emergency number. Questions included the shovel that was found in the aerator from the last maintenance done in March of 2021 , what filtering if any is done and UV light disinfecting. System costs have prevented the water company to pursue some of these systems (150k for water plant filtering for example) and this would require flushing at the filter. Self-Flushing filters were 100K dollars more.
